Lincoln University Faculty Profile – Fall 2009

As the driving force for the educational processes and intellectual traditions of the Institution since 1854, the Faculty is the core constituency that makes possible the work of the University through a variety of modes of instruction, academic advising, research, and service. It is the unwavering purpose of the Faculty to challenge students to achieve a superior level of academic performance. The Lincoln University Faculty Profile for the Fall 2009 semester provides an overview of the corps of instruction, which comprises the Faculty roster, as well as descriptive captions for individual instructors. This document is prepared annually and submitted to the Board of Trustees. The data presented here describe the gender, racial and ethnic background, academic credentials, academic rank, tenure status, and age of the faculty, as well as the student-faculty ratio. Although their responsibilities and credentials are distinct from the rest of the faculty, librarians at Lincoln University hold faculty rank, as is the custom in many public institutions of higher education. For this reason, librarians are excluded from some of the analyses here.

I. Executive Summary

- Faculty Size – Fall 2009: 107 full-time faculty and 3 deans. (Fall of 2008: 109 full-time faculty and 3 deans.)
- Gender – Fall 2009: 62% male and 38% female. (Fall of 2008: 63% male and 37% female.)
- Race and Ethnicity – Fall 2009: 50.9% African Descendants, 36.4% European Descendants, 0.9% Hispanic, 11.8% Asian/Middle Eastern. (Fall of 2008: 50.5% African Descendant, 35.8% European Descendants, 0.9% Hispanic 12.8% Asian/Middle Eastern.)
- Academic Background (Degrees) – Fall 2009: 75% of the faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees or the terminal degrees for their areas of specialization; 24% hold master's degrees and 1% hold the bachelor's degree only. (Fall of 2008: 73% of the faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees or the terminal degrees for their areas of specialization; 26% hold master's degrees and 1% hold the bachelor's degree only.)
- Academic Rank – Fall 2009: 58.2% in the senior ranks, associate professor and professor. (Fall of 2008: 55.1% in the senior ranks, associate professor and professor.)
- Tenure Status – Fall 2009: 59% tenured. (Fall of 2008: 54% tenured.)
- Faculty Age – Fall 2009: 42% 40-59 age group. (Fall 2008: 47% 40-59 age group.)
- Student-Faculty Ratio – Fall of 2009: 19:1 and Fall of 2008: 16:1 student-faculty ratio (SFR). (Librarians, faculty holding administrative positions, and faculty teaching at the graduate level only are not included in this calculation.)
- Part-time Faculty – Fall 2009: 93 part-time faculty members. (Fall 2008: 91 part-time faculty members.)

II. Profile

Introduction

The data provided in this profile provides a cross-sectional snapshot of the Lincoln University faculty across a variety of demographic parameters. In providing a five-year window, the reader is afforded opportunity to discern any changes that may have occurred over time. The focus is on the full-time faculty with only fleeting reference to the part-time faculty.

A. Faculty Size

Full-time faculty members are instructors who hold the faculty rank of Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Instructor, Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor, whether visiting or permanent, and who are ordinarily responsible for teaching at least 12 credit hours per semester, unless released for some other purpose (academic or administrative assignment.)¹ Included in the count of full-time faculty are faculty with full-time administrative positions, for example, librarians, faculty teaching full-time in the Master of Human Services Program (MHS) and faculty on leave or sabbatical.

One hundred and two (102) full-time faculty members are appointed to teach at the undergraduate level and eight (8) at the graduate level. The six (6) librarians and three (3) full-time administrators are included in the count of faculty at the undergraduate level. (See Table 1.) While librarians teach students, they do not offer instruction that carries academic credit.

According to the data contained in Table 1, we note an upward trend in the number of full-time faculty members from 2005 to 2009 and an increase of 4.8% from Fall 2008 to Fall 2009. As noted in Table 2 out of 110 full-time faculty members in 2009-2010, ninety (90) teach at the undergraduate level only, eight (8) teach at the graduate level only, two (2) teach at both levels, three (3) hold full-time administrative appointments, and six (6) are librarians. Information for previous years is provided in Table 2.

¹ This definition of full-time faculty members includes both tenured and tenure-track faculty. It does include those administrators who hold faculty appointments. The ranks Lecturer and Senior Lecturer are not tenure track positions.

B. Gender

In academic year 2009-10, the number and percentages of male and female full-time faculty are 68 (62%) and 42 (38%), respectively. (See Figure 2.) For the academic year 2008-09, the number and percentages of male and female full-time faculty are 71 (63%) and 41 (37%), respectively. For the academic year 2007-08, the number and percentages of male and female full-time faculty are 69 (63%) and 40 (37%), respectively. For the academic year 2006-07, the number and percentages of male and female full-time faculty were 70 (68%) and 36 (32%), respectively. For the academic year 2005-06, the number and percentages of male and female full-time faculty were 67 (65%) and 36 (35%), respectively.

C. Race and Ethnicity

Lincoln University has an international faculty with representation from Bangladesh, Cameroon, China, Ethiopia, Ghana, Grenada, Guyana, India, Jamaica, Japan, Namibia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Persia, Tunisia, Uruguay, Vietnam, Zimbabwe, and the United States. Such a diverse representation advantages Lincoln University students with to a wide range of cultures, customs. Utilizing the racial/ethnic definitions in the Instruction Booklet to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Form 221, Higher Education Staff Information (EEO-6), there were, at the beginning of the 2009-10 academic year, 56 (50.9%) African Descendants, 40 (36.4%) European Descendants, 1 (0.9%) Hispanics, and 13 (11.8%) Asians/Middle Eastern. For comparison, in the 2008-09 academic year, 55 (50.5%) African Descendants, 39 (35.8%) European Descendants, 1 (0.9%) Hispanics, and 14 (12.8%) Asians/Middle Eastern. In the 2007-08 academic year, 41 (39.0%) African Descendants, 34 (32.1%) European Descendants, 2 (1.9%) Hispanics, and 16 (15.1%) Asians/Middle Eastern and 12 (11.3%) undisclosed. In the 2006-07 academic year, 42 (39.6%) African Descendants, 34 (32.4%) European Descendants, 2 (1.9%) Hispanic, 15 (14.3%) Asians/Middle Eastern and 13 (12.4%) undisclosed. In the 2005-06 academic year, 50 (48.5%) African Descendants, 35 (34%) European Descendants, 2 (1.9%) Hispanic and 16 (15.5%) Asians/Middle Eastern. (See Table 3.)

D. Academic Background (Degrees)

The current academic year (see Figure 7) (2009-2010) data indicate that 78 (75%) of the full-time faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees (Ph.D., Ed.D., and D.V.M.) and 25 (24%) hold master's degrees (M.B.A., M.A., M.Ed., M.M., and M.F.A.) as the highest degree earned and 1 (1%) holds a bachelor's degree.

The 2008-2009 data indicate that 77 (73%) of the full-time faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees (Ph.D., Ed.D., and D.V.M.) and 28 (26%) hold master's degrees (M.B.A., M.A., M.Ed., M.M., and M.F.A.) as the highest degree earned and 1 (1%) holds a bachelor's degree. The 2007-2008 data indicate that 73 (72%) of the full-time faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees (Ph.D., Ed.D., and D.V.M.) and 28 (27%) hold master's degrees (M.B.A., M.A., M.Ed., M.M., and M.F.A.) as the highest degree earned and 1 (1%) holds a bachelor's degree. The 2006-2007 data indicate that 73 (74%) of the full-time faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees (Ph.D., Ed.D., and D.V.M.) and 25 (26%) hold master's degrees (M.B.A., M.A., M.Ed., M.M., and M.F.A.) as the highest degree earned. The 2005-2006 academic year data indicate that 72 (75%) of the full-time faculty (excluding librarians) hold doctorate degrees (Ph.D., Ed.D., and D.V.M.) and 24 (25%) hold master's degrees (M.B.A., M.A., M.Ed., M.M., and M.F.A.) as the highest degree earned.

Currently, Lincoln University's eight (8) full-time graduate program faculty includes seven (7) terminal degree holders, and one (1) master's degree holder.

E. Academic Rank

According to Table 5, more than half (58.2%) of the full-time faculty are in the senior ranks, Associate Professor and Professor. For comparison in the 2008-2009 55.1% of the full-time faculty are in the senior ranks, Associate Professor and Professor.

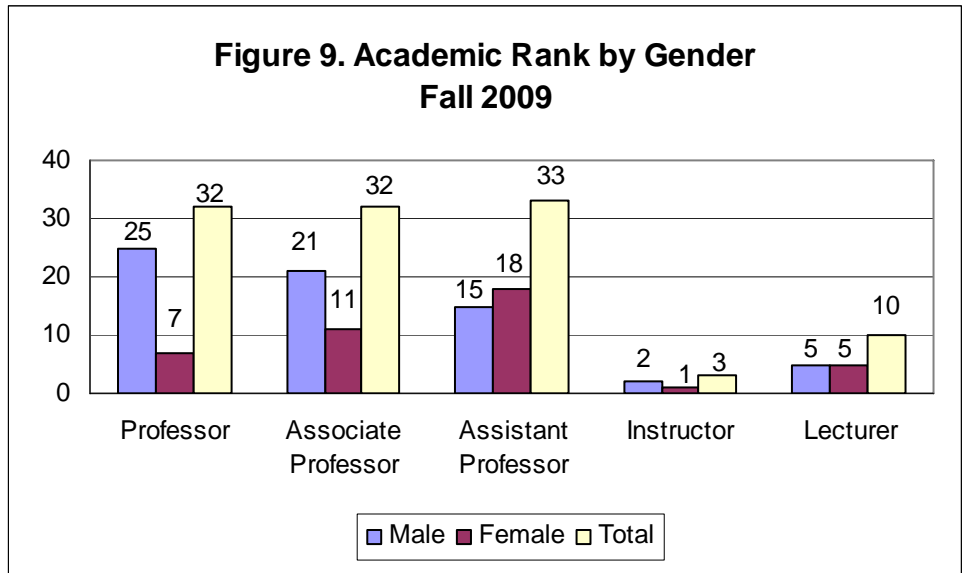

For the 2009-2010 academic year, the distribution of full-time faculty rank is: Professors 32 (29.1%), Associate Professors 32 (29.1%), Assistant Professors 33 (30.0%), Instructors 3 (2.7%) and Lecturers 10 (9.1%). For the 2008-2009 academic year, the distribution of full-time faculty rank is: Professors 32 (29.4%), Associate Professors 28 (25.7%), Assistant Professors 27 (24.8%), Instructors 8 (7.3%) and Lecturers 14 (12.8%). For the 2007-2008 academic year, the distribution of full-time faculty rank is: Professors 34 (32.4%), Associate Professors 24 (22.9%), Assistant Professors 26 (24.8%), Instructors 10 (9.5%), and Lecturers 11 (10.5%). For the 2006-07 academic year, the distribution of full-time faculty rank is: Professors 35 (34%), Associate Professors 23 (22.3%), Assistant Professors 26 (25.2%), Instructors 6 (5.8%), and Lecturers 13 (12.6%). For the 2005-06 academic year, the distribution of full-time faculty rank is: Professors 34 (35.8%), Associate Professors 21 (22.1%), Assistant Professors 22 (23.2%), Instructors 5 (5.3%), and Lecturers 13 (13.7%).

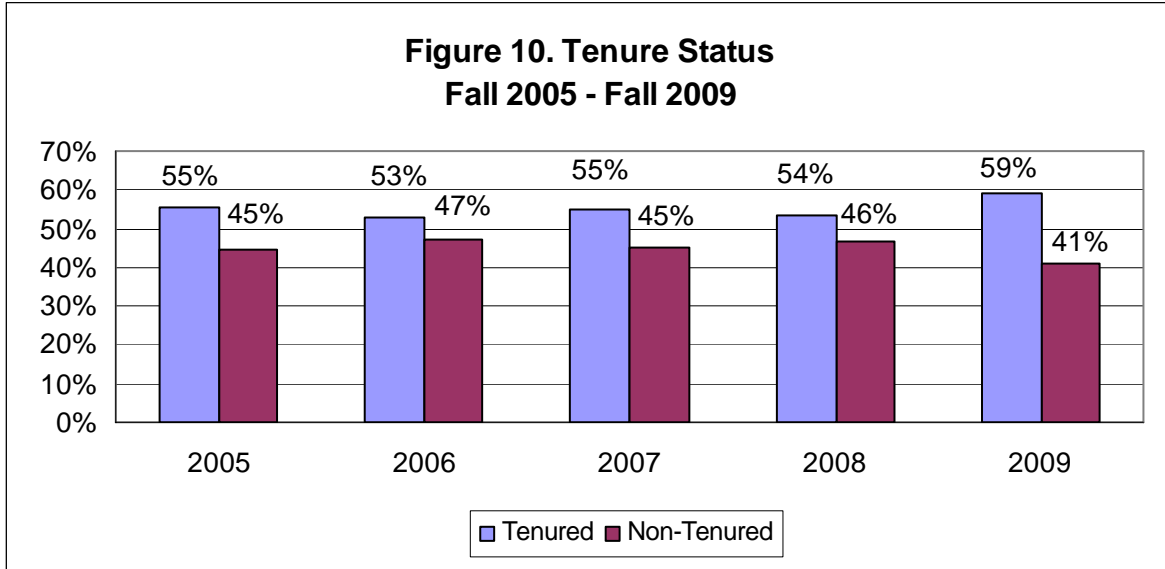

Figure 9 illustrates the breakdown of women and men by academic rank. Nationally, men outnumber women in the professional ranks. The ratio of men to women in the professional ranks at Lincoln University is reflective of this national trend.

F. Tenure Status

In 2009-10, 59% of the full-time faculty is tenured. In previous years this figure was 54% in 2008-2009, 55% in 2007-2008, 53% in 2006-2007 and 55% in 2005-06. (See Figure 10.) Of the 65 tenured faculty members, 48 (74%) are men and 17 (26%) are women. The ratio of tenured men to tenured women is almost 3 to 1 (Figure 11).

Source: Office of Institutional Research

Colleges and universities pay attention to the percentage of tenured faculty for a variety of reasons, including maintaining room for renewal and reinvigoration of the instructional staff. Table 6 presents the tenure status at Lincoln for the Fall 2009 semester at each rank. Lincoln does not have a quota for tenured faculty.

G. Faculty Age

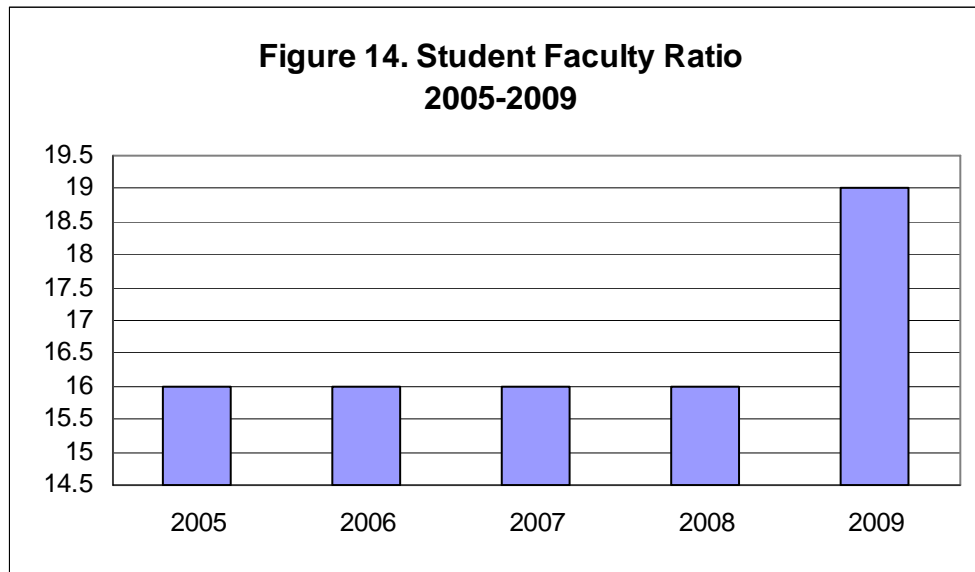

A significant portion of Lincoln University's full-time faculty is between the ages of 50 and above. (See Figure 13.)

Source: Office of Institutional Research

H. Student-Faculty Ratio

Lincoln University has a 19:1 student-faculty ratio (SFR). The SFR is derived by dividing the total number of enrolled full-time equivalent undergraduate students by the total number of full-time equivalent faculty (not including librarians, full-time administrators with faculty rank and faculty who teach only graduate level courses).

I. Part-time Faculty

The growth of programs at the Center for Graduate and Continuing Education and the additional faculty needed to teach the increased enrollment in the MHS program are among the reasons for the rising number of part-time faculty. In compliance with its institutional self-study for the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, the University seeks to reduce the proportion of part-time positions to achieve a more desired balance with full-time positions. This is one of the priorities of the Office of Academic Affairs.

The distribution of the part-time faculty by program is illustrated in Figure 15.
