President Nelson Reminds Reunion Classes of Lincoln's Great Legacy

The following are excerpts from the speech delivered by Lincoln President Ivory V. Nelson, Ph.D. during the Founder's Day and Alumni Awards Banquet on May 3, 2003 at the University's Thurgood Marshall Living and Learning Center.

Lincoln President Ivory V. Nelson, Ph.D. (left) presented awards to six Lincoln alumni honored during the Founder's Day and Alumni Awards Banquet on May 3 (see story on page 5). Here, President Nelson and Dr. James A. "Moose" Parker ex '42, Emeritus Trustee, hold the Founder's Day Honoree Award plaques for Monford "Monte" Irvin, ex '42, a Major League Baseball Hall of Famer and Negro Baseball Leagues legend. Irvin was unable to attend the banquet.

Good Evening. To our distinguished Mistress of Ceremonies, chairwoman, Lincoln University Board of Trustees, distinguished guests on the dais, trustees, alumni, students, faculty, staff, families and friends of Lincoln University, welcome to this Founder's Day and Alumni Awards Banquet. The continuation of the celebration of our Sesquicentennial, this dual event for the University is a celebration of our founding and recognition of our alumni.

One of the compelling reasons for the founding of Lincoln University was a result of when James Ralston Amos approached John Miller Dickey in 1852 and asked how he might perfect himself for the Christian Ministry. John Miller Dickey first tried to help by volunteering his service as an instructor. Amos would walk four miles a

Lincoln's 144th Commencement and Alumni Weekend Draws Thousands to Historic Campus

University Awards Three Outstanding Business Leaders with Honorary Doctorate Degrees

The weather was picture-perfect as Lincoln University celebrated its Alumni Weekend and 144th Commencement ceremonies May 2-4. Lincoln's 144th Commencement, held on the University's campus lawn on May 4, saw 158 seniors receive baccalaureate degrees and 146 students awarded master's degrees.

Lincoln also presented three awardees with honorary degrees. These individuals (see photos on pages 3 and 7) included: Walter D. Chambers, a 1952 Lincoln graduate, Emeritus Trustee, award-winning corporate executive, and educator; Mannie L. Jackson, owner and chairman of the internationally renowned Harlem Globetrotters basketball team; and Mark E. Dean, an IBM executive. Dean, co-inventor of a microcomputer system that paved the way for the growth in the information technology industry, delivered the keynote Commencement address.

day, to and from Oxford, for an hour of instruction. At the beginning of his walk he would stop in a grove a hundred yards from the house and pray. This is the site where Ashmun Hall now stands.

When John Miller Dickey found that he could not spare the time needed, he wrote to his friend and teacher, Professor Charles Hodge at Princeton Theological Seminary, and later would send James Amos to Princeton for an interview. Need I tell you that on May 8, 1852 Amos was denied admittance. Thus began the quest to establish Ashmun Institute.

On April 29, 1854 Ashmun Institute was granted its charter to deliver a course of instruction in science, literature, the liberal arts, classics and theology. Instruction began at Ashmun Institute on January 1, 1857 with two students, James Ralston Amos and his brother, Thomas H. Amos, with President John P. Carter serving as the sole faculty member. A third student, Armistead Miller, joined in the fall of 1857. All three graduated in 1859. In 1859, Mrs. Jane Brown left a bequest of $2,868.30 - the first endowment capital.

On February 7, 1866, the Board of Trustees authorized the application for an amended Charter. The name of Ashmun Institute was changed to Lincoln University.

I suspect that John Miller Dickey in the founding of Lincoln University must have shared the perspective voiced by

Robert Frost in his poem:
*Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
 and sorry I could not travel both.
 And be one traveler, long I stood.
 And looked down one as far as I could.
 To where it bent in the undergrowth;*

*Then took the other, as just as fair,
 And having perhaps the better claim,
 Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
 Though as for that the passing there
 Had worn them really about the same,
 And both that morning equally lay
 In leaves, no step had trodden black.
 Oh, I kept the first for another day!
 Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
 I doubted if I should ever come back.
 I shall be telling this with a sigh.
 Somewhere ages and ages hence:
 Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—*

*I took the one less traveled by,
 And that has made all the difference.*

The road John Miller Dickey took in starting Lincoln University has made all the difference.

It was a winter morning in 1857 when Lincoln University welcomed its first students. Since this meager beginning, over 14,000 graduates have set out from these historic grounds.

Different and very personal voyages of discovery have brought each of us to this celebration today. But we all have at least two things in common. Each of us has a share in the rich and storied traditions of this great university. And we bring to it a personal history of small but decisive moments when education had a transforming effect on our lives. Everyone here has experienced the thrill of that "aha" moment.

This is one of the ties that bind us together. Ours is an ancient enterprise. The idea of Lincoln University has been tested and refined over the course of 149 years. LR

Lincoln celebrated its rich legacy by honoring six of its distinguished alumni during the University's annual Founder's Day and Alumni Awards Banquet on Saturday, May 3 at the Thurgood Marshall Living and Learning Center. The evening ceremony, culminated a full weekend of campus activities that brought hundreds of Lincoln alumni back to the historic campus.

Receiving the Founder's Day Honoree Award was Dr. Clisson M. Woods '64, a radiologist who specializes in nuclear medicine. On November 3, 2001, Dr. Woods established the Roslyn Woods Bogle Memorial Endowment Fund (named for his deceased aunt) with a gift of $20,000 to benefit the University's Langston Hughes Memorial Library. Monford "Monte" Irvin, ex '42, a Major League Baseball Hall of Famer and Negro Baseball Leagues All-Star, also received the Founder's Day Honoree Award. Four other Lincoln alumni were also honored at the banquet with the Distinguished Alumni Award.

Those honorees included: Lloyd E. Asparagus, Jr. '68, Charisse Carney-Nunes '88, Dr. Martin L. Kilson, Jr. '53 and William C. King, Esquire, '73.

An Evening of High Praise

Asparagus has served Lincoln in a variety of capacities since his graduation, including as vice president of Fiscal Affairs and Treasurer. He is currently University Bursar.

Ms. Carney-Nunes is an attorney for the National Science Foundation (NSF) and recipient of the White House Initiative Award for Excellence. King currently serves as Director of the Office of Departmental Equal Employment Opportunity, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Washington, D.C. King was a member of the Lincoln Board from 1993-2002, serving as Parliamentarian and as Vice Chairman.

Dr. Kilson, is the Frank G. Thomson Professor of Government Emeritus at Harvard University and is the first African-American to be granted full tenure at Harvard University. Kilson is a prolific writer who has authored several books and numerous social and political articles on Black life in scholarly journals. LR

Dr. Clisson M. Woods '64 was one of two Founder's Day Award Honorees. The other was baseball great Monford "Monte" Irvin ex '42. Dr. James A. "Moose" Parker '42 (see cover page photo caption with President Nelson), accepted the award for Irvin, who was unable to attend the event.

Class of 1953 Reunites for 50th Anniversary at Founder's Day 2003

This year, Lincoln University's Class of 1953 marked its 50th anniversary and was honored at the Founder's Day Emeritus Class Luncheon on May 3. President Ivory V. Nelson, Ph.D. presented each with special Emeritus Alumni Medallions after lunch. Class of 1953 members attending the luncheon included, front row, from left: George B. Jones (kneeling), Dr. Henry Cornell '33 (class advisor), Dr. Martin L. Kilson, Jr., Alfred Kase, Donald Pierce and Donald Ukkerd. Standing from left: Joseph Daniels, Ted Whitney, Dr. Bernard Duncan, Richard Marshall, Basil Gordon, President Nelson, Laval Corthran, Ernest Smith, James M.
