

Richard Green, Ph.D.
Interim President

Welcome!

A warm welcome to the Lincoln University community as we begin the 2016-2017 academic year. I trust that everyone had an enjoyable summer and is settled in as we begin the new fall semester. Over the course of my initial year as interim president, I had the opportunity to work with faculty, staff members, students, and alumni who are determined to continue the advancement of Lincoln University. During this productive time, many undertakings have come to fruition and much was accomplished through mutual respect, perseverance, determination, and patience.

As we enter this new academic year, we cannot forget the tragedies and events that have had a resounding impact on the citizens of the United States and those throughout the world. Our nation and the world have experienced natural disasters, political unrest, and unthinkable acts of violence which has caused great dissent among classes and races. It is during times such as these that I contemplate what we, as citizens of this great country can do to make a difference. Witnessing the comradery and determination of athletes, the peaceful rivalry between entire nations, and sheer joy and excitement of countrymen, families and friends during the Summer Olympic Games in Rio, increased my confidence that we, as human beings have the power and strength within ourselves to come together for a common cause. It also enforced my belief that when united around a common goal with respect for others we can change the world for the betterment of all.

As we move into the 2016-2017 academic year, I challenge all of us to think about what we can do as individuals, and collectively as a Lincoln University family, to effect positive change in the lives of others. I challenge you to not only volunteer, but to also coordinate activities that will bring about social change to help impact the lives of our students and others in our communities who are less fortunate than we are. Let us together make Lincoln University a place that is known not only for its academic excellence, but also for its commitment to impacting the lives of others in a tangible way.

As President, I will be pleased to meet with any individual or group of employees and/or students to discuss initiatives that we might undertake as a family to help serve the needs of those around us. As circumstances change for those we help, they in turn will help others reach their potential. Let us do and be better than our best. As we work towards accomplishing Lincoln University's mission and vision keep this in mind: together we are stronger, together we can!!
