Today: Study Skills Workshop

Prepare for finals! The Center for Advising & Student Achievement is having a workshop on Study Skills today 4 pm in Wright Hall 207.

Water Quality

You may have noticed cloudy water on campus on or around March 24. The cloudiness was a result of extra air in the water due to the installation of water aerators as part of an ongoing efficiency upgrade project. The University takes water quality seriously, and even though there was never doubt that the water was anything but safe and clean, the University took the added precaution of completing water sample testing of two residence halls through an independent, external authority; the results show the water is clean and safe. Further water tests will be administered to ensure that the water is safe across campus. We apologize for any confusion or inconvenience this might have caused.

Public Safety: Credit Cards

Officers from the Lincoln University's Public Safety recently arrested a person on campus who was found to be in possession of a machine for making credit cards. This person was also in possession of a card swipe device that can read the information on the magnetic stripe of a credit card. Other evidence was retrieved that led officers to believe that this subject may have been selling stolen credit card information. While there is no specific evidence of accounts being stolen on campus, everyone is urged to check their credit card accounts for any unauthorized or suspicious activity. If any discrepancies are found, please contact Public Safety immediately.
